Ahmad Caver — Game Day Vlog

Oct 26, 2026 · @Mr. Eran Avisrur

One game night becomes one film. We introduce Ahmad through a game day first, then let people meet the person behind the player. This page is what we are asking you to approve: the idea, the story, and how the day will work.

The idea

We are not filming a basketball game. We are introducing Ahmad Caver through a basketball game.

The game is the way in. People already know you can play. What they do not know yet is who you are at 4pm on game day, what you think about in the tunnel, and who you are when you leave the arena. This film gives them the player first, then the person, so they have a reason to follow you after the final buzzer.

The feel: natural, cinematic, personal, confident. Not over-produced. Not a highlight tape.

Three rules we will keep:

1. Your voice tells the story. No narrator, no studio interview, no text walls. Your own words from a relaxed conversation run over the whole film.
2. Real beats staged ones. We follow your actual routine. We never ask you to fake a moment or repeat something for the camera.
3. The game is the peak, not the point. The game gets about a minute and a half of a five-minute film. The rest is you.

The story in seven beats

The film opens near the end, with one line from you over a quiet arena, then jumps back to the start of your day. From there it runs in order to the final buzzer and beyond.

#	Beat	What people see	What we need from you	Runtime
0	Cold open	A dark, empty court or the tunnel after the game. One sentence of yours about who you are. Title: Ahmad Caver, Chapter One.	Nothing extra. The line comes from the conversation in beat 5.	0:10

#	Beat	What people see	What we need from you	Runtime
1	Arrival	You arriving at the arena. Bag, shoes, headphones, the walk in, a nod to security, the first look at the court.	Arrive the way you always do. Give us one honest answer to "What's the mindset tonight?"	0:40
2	Pre-game	Locker room, taping, stretching, your shooting routine, teammates, the quiet minutes before you go out. Energy builds to tip-off.	Tell us beforehand two or three real rituals you have, so we are in the right place when they happen.	1:10
3	The game	Your best plays, defense, reactions, the bench, the crowd, the scoreboard. One signature moment slowed down with the sound pulled out.	Play. Forget we are there.	1:30
4	After the game	Your first raw reaction in the tunnel or locker room, minutes after the buzzer. Sweat still on.	Three short answers: how it felt, what stood out, what the mindset is after a night like this.	0:40
5	Meet Ahmad	A different place, a different pace. A relaxed conversation about where you come from, how long the game has been in your life, what keeps you hungry, and who you are off the court.	30 to 40 minutes with us at a spot you choose: the car ride home, a late-night place in Ramat Gan, your apartment.	1:30
6	Next chapter	Your closing line, final shots of the arena emptying out, the walk away. Card: EA Visuals × Ahmad Caver.	One sentence that promises more. In your words, not ours.	0:20

Total runtime about six minutes. Beat 5 is the heart of the film, and the one we will use most in everything that follows.

Your game day

We fit around you, not the other way around. Your routine and your performance come first, always.

- Before the game: a two-person crew meets you at arrival. One short question on the walk in. After that we are invisible until the buzzer.
- During the game: nothing. We shoot from the baseline and the stands.
- Right after: five minutes in the tunnel or locker room for your raw reaction, before the showers and the phone.
- Later that night or the next day: 30 to 40 minutes of relaxed conversation somewhere that feels like you. We talk, you answer. No script, no rehearsed lines.
- Wardrobe: wear what you would wear anyway. Clean, simple, no busy logos that are not yours. Bring your real headphones and your real bag.
- Off limits: tell us anything you do not want on camera, people or topics, and it stays out. Final cut comes to you before anything is posted.

What you get

Deliverable	Length	Where it lives	Purpose
Game Day film, Chapter One	4 to 7 min	YouTube	The introduction. The piece you send to anyone who asks who Ahmad Caver is.
Instagram Reel	30 to 60 s	Instagram, TikTok	The fast version: arrival, preparation, best moments, your personality, a strong closing line.
Teaser	10 to 15 s	Instagram Stories, X	Posted a day before the film to build the drop.
Stills	8 to 10 photos	Your feed, press, agents	Cinematic frames pulled from the shoot for posts and profiles.

Timeline from the shoot: rough cut of the film within 7 days for your notes, final film and Reel within 14 days, teaser and stills with the final. Dates lock once the game is confirmed.

Approval

Tick what you approve. Anything you want changed, write a comment next to it and we will adjust before the shoot.

- [ ] The idea and the feel
- [ ] The seven-beat story
- [ ] The conversation topics (full list in the Full script tab, beat 5)

- [ ] How the game day works for you
- [ ] The deliverables and timeline

Once approved, we lock the game date and send you the final run of show two days before.